7. Brief Description of the Organization/Group (organization type, group mission, etc.). Please include details about the organization/group's vision and how it ties to the targeted population.

Learning Rights Law Center seeks to achieve education equity for low-income and disadvantaged students in the public education system in the greater Los Angeles area. We change the lives of at-risk students who have disabilities, including developmental disabilities, by providing free legal services, education advocacy, and community training. The majority of these students are immigrants, from non-English speaking families, and minorities. We believe that every child has a right to learn, regardless of race, income, or neighborhood, and advocate to make that a reality. The focus of our advocacy is to get children with disabilities the education services and related supports they need to succeed in school. This includes home and after school rehabilitative services, such as Regional Center services, that may impact a child's development and learning. The purpose of our education training and community outreach programs is to empower families to help themselves and one another. Our vision is a world in which all children may pursue a meaningful and equitable education that provides them with a brighter future and the means to become successful adults.

2. Describe how the target population is an underserved population.

Learning Rights includes among its constituents children with disabilities (birth through age 22), as well as their parents or other family members. Our clients come from economically-marginalized communities in Ventura County (Oxnard), San Bernardino County (Fontana), and throughout the 8 Service Planning Areas (SPAs) of Los Angeles County. Most of the residents in these areas are monolingual Spanish speakers. Learning Rights serves families who live at or below 250% of the federal poverty guidelines, with a focus on those who are below 125% of poverty guidelines. Clients are 10% African-American; 6% Caucasian; 71% Latino; 3% Asian/Pacific Islander; 1% Native American and 9% other. The low-income status of Learning Rights' clients and their difficulty receiving a high-quality education services are very closely related. In California, high schools with high-poverty students lose nearly two weeks of learning time annually because of teacher absences, emergency lockdowns and other disruptions compared with their more affluent peers in other schools. Low-income students are also nearly three times more likely than affluent peers to suffer stress from violence, immigration, caring for family members, lack of healthcare, hunger and unstable housing. Learning Rights' clients with disabilities have additional challenges as a result of their disabilities. More than 100,000 students in Los Angeles County have disabilities ranging from autism and dyslexia to cerebral palsy and deafness. In 2016, a large majority of Learning Rights' clients had one or more disabilities, and more than 50% of them had Autism Spectrum Disorder. Nearly 40% of students with disabilities do not graduate from high school, however, 85% of them are estimated to be capable of it. Clients seek out our services as a direct result of the current system's failure to serve them and their communities.

3. Describe the project and its goals/objectives. *Complete the Schedule of Development/Activities Worksheet (Attachment C) and include with your application.

Our Community Support Groups are the result of our award-winning Training Individuals for Grassroots Education Reform (TIGER) Classes that we have held for over a decade. The year-long TIGER program educates parents of children with disabilities on the services available to them, their rights as parents, and the power of advocating on behalf of their children. Some TIGER parents form Community Support Groups, where they can gather parents in their community to learn, share, and support one another through the process of raising a child with a disability. Support Groups are often the first time a parent meets other parents who are struggling with the same issues, and can be the first time they hear about resources that exist to help themselves or their child. Because of their participation in the program, parents benefit from increased knowledge of their children's rights and, as a result, children receive the services and support they deserve - paving the way to a brighter future.

The Community Support Group leaders are the heart of our Support Group program and function much like Promotoras. These parents take the knowledge they've received and work to affect change not only for their own children with disabilities, but for people within their community who may not know where to begin getting help for their child. Community Support Groups meet at least once a month, and are attended by at least one member of the Learning Rights staff: our Community Engagement & Policy Director, our TIGER Coordinator, our Psychoeducational Consultant, or even one of our Co-Executive Directors.

A Community Support Group meeting traditionally includes an introduction from new members, a sharing of community resources (upcoming local health fair, public library event, enrollment deadlines), a training session on a topic of the community's choosing, and concludes with eachfamily sharing their ongoing struggles. Learning Rights currently provides support in the form of resources and training. The Community Group leaders train first in our TIGER program, where they gain the knowledge and confidence to lead others. Group leaders then meet with Learning Rights staff bi-monthly to discuss and plan their meetings, but also for leadership development and capacity training. As a result, Group leaders are better prepared to leverage technology and conduct impactful meetings. The average TIGER parent has a 3rd-grade level education or equivalent, but with the support of Learning Rights many of these parents are leading members of their community and ensuring that children get access to the services they need. Learning Rights also has staff members give presentations at Support Group meetings, on a wide range of topics from special-education law to parenting advice for those who have children with developmental disabilities.

With the help of the Department of Developmental Services, we will expand our Support Groups to specifically include presentations about local Regional Centers, survey our parents on their knowledge about services from Regional Centers (pre and post tests), and conduct intakes on-site to do a needs assessment for issues that require Regional Center services or advocacy. Additionally, we want to continue our outreach efforts that engaged with the Los Angeles community at over 80 events in 2017, and interacted with over 4,000 community members. As a result, our current relationships with these communities will be leveraged to increase the amount of intakes among Latinos at local Regional Centers. Additionally, our surveys will be able to evaluate the impact of their services.

Note: Because of tribal autonomy, much of our outreach to AI communities will be through the Torres-Martinez Tribal TANF, with whom we have an existing relationship. This grant will allow us to train tribal stakeholders about Regional Center eligibility, services, and disputes/appeals, to increase their capacity to identify Regional Center issues and make appropriate referrals.

Goal #1 -- 4,000 parents of students with disabilities will receive resources/in-person information about Regional Center eligibility, services, and appeals processes at community fairs and other outreach events.70% of these parents (2,800) will be Latino, African American or American Indian.

Goal #2 -- We will facilitate 10 Community Group Meetings in each of 5 locations throughout the greater Los Angeles area (locations: Downey, West Los Angeles, Highland Park, Long Beach, Fontana) for a total of 50 Community Group Meetings in 2018.

Goal #3 -- At least 350 parents of children with disabilities will attend a Community Group Meeting. 70% of these (245 parents) will be Latino or American Indian (AI) parents of a child with developmental disabilities. This will result in 539 Latino/AI children with developmental disabilities being served (assumes 2.2 children with disabilities per household).

Goal #4 -- 95% of all Community Group Meeting attendees (90% of 305 = 315) will receive a passing grade on post-test scores when queried on their knowledge about Regional Centers, services, and appeals/disputes processes.

Goal #5 -- We will conduct Know Your Rights Clinics, two at each Community Group location (eg Downey, West Los Angeles, Highland Park, Long Beach, Fontana) for a total of 10 Clinics in 2018. This will resulting in at least 50 families (5 families per clinic) receiving a needs assessment and step-by-step written action plan to help them resolve any issues around services and supports for their child with a disability.

Goal #6 -- We will convene a Town Hall meeting for over 100 low-income parents of students with disabilities to engage, train, and mobilize around common issues.

4. How will the project address and incorporate the input of the community it aims to serve?

The Community Support Groups are parent-led, and as such are driven at every step by their priorities and interests. Learning Rights staff meets with the group leaders on a bimonthly basis to address any concerns that they have, and to help organize and plan upcoming group meetings. The group leaders can shift the focus of their respective groups based on the concerns or specific needs of their community. As such, the parents who partake in the Community Group have a significant amount of influence in everything from the presentations they receive to the topics of the meetings and resources offered.

5. Describe how the project's effectiveness will be measured. What type of data will be collected (qualitative or quantitative)?* Complete the Project Measures Worksheet (Attachment D) and include with your application.

We will collect both qualititate and quantitive data.

Quantitative: We will count how many Community Support Groups (goal of 50) we facilitate, as well the number of attendees (goal 350) and their biometrics. We will count how many Know Your Rights Clinics we conduct (goal of 10), as well as the number of children in each household and their biometric data. We will count how many parents and children we directly reach through our over 80 outreach activities, which includes community fairs throughout the greater Los Angeles area (goal of 4,000).

Qualitiative: Our on-site Know Your Rights Clinic will result in a concrete number of clients referred to their local Regional Center or Consumer Services Advocate with a specific issue. We will track with clients have issues that resolve over the course of the year. Additionally, our quarterly surveys (pre and post tests) will give us raw data about parents' familiarity with their local Regional Center and its services. By the end of the year, we can evaluate the increase in knowledge and services compared to the beginning of 2018. In terms of outreach, additional community engagement will result in measurably larger Community Support Groups that can be referred to their local Regional Center at our quarterly intakes.

6. Where will your project be implemented (counties, cities, neighborhoods, etc.)?

Our Community Support Groups cover a majority of Los Angeles County and reach as far as San Bernadino and Riverside counties. The 5 groups meet in Downey, Fontana, Long Beach, Westside, and Highland Park. As a result, our clients will be served at the Westside, Lanterman, San Gabriel, Harbor, Riverside, and San Bernadino Regional Centers.
